

Although everything remains very dull in the social world, there are already signs of the return of autumn and its gay times. Many of the people who have been out of town for the warm weather have returned only to find that the warm weather is still here. Several of the young people have gone back to school or college and within the next fortnight nearly all the summer visitors will have departed. The mountain resorts are still thronged but the coming week will doubtless see many of the campers returning to their homes. The week promises little in the way of entertainment, a dinner or two being all that is planned so far.

A very pretty though simple home wedding was that of Miss Ida Josephine Pratt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orson Pratt, and Mr. George Baldwin Greenwood, which took place yesterday. The ceremony was performed by Dr. W. M. Paden at 1 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, and was witnessed by only a few guests. Following the ceremony an informal reception was held during the afternoon, when a number of friends came in to formally place the bride and groom on their journey. The bride wore a white gown of white satin ribbon. She carried a bouquet of white roses. The groom wore a dark suit. The ceremony was a simple and beautiful one.

Mrs. Nellie Cullen was the hostess yesterday at a very beautiful luncheon given in honor of three of the young visiting girls in town. The guests numbered twenty-four and they were seated at one long table. Two immense bowls of sweet peas formed the center decoration and from these extended a ribbon, each guest, seated place cards of hand-painted butterflies being attached to the end of each ribbon. Pink and white were the colors carried out in every detail, the table presenting a particularly attractive appearance with its throng of pretty girls. The guests of honor were Miss Margaret Ryan, Miss Grace McMillan and Miss Jacobs.
